"I am glad to tell of my experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was suffering from partial paralysis of the left side of my face, the trouble beginning with a general breakdown of the nervous system. First I had a severe earache which came on very suddenly. My left ear seemed to be held in a vise. There was a prickling sensation throughout my head and left side of my face. My eyes were affected and the left side of my face became partially paralyzed. The pains were very severe. I was weak, could not get a good night's rest and lost in flesh. My circulation was poor.

and lost in flesh. My circulation was poor.

"I was treated by doctors at Ossawatomie, Kansas, who pronounced my affliction partial paralysis. They gave me only temporary relief. I also took electric treatments for a time. After a year of suffering, during which time I was occasionally confined to bed for a day or so, I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I received benefit sooner than I hoped for and gained in strength rapidly. The prickling sensations disappeared and I took the pills until cured. I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

CHICAGO WILL HAVE FOREIGN POLICE LEGION

Chicago, March 9.-Chicago is t Chicago, March 9.—Chicago is to have a foreign police legion to work with the regular force. Twenty-five men will be examined in the Sicilian language and all who pass that test and the necessary physical examination will be put to work.

This plan of having a corps of foreign policemen apart from the regular force has been evolved by Chief of Police Steward to provide detectives to work on "Black Hand" and other Italian murder cases hitherto impossible of solution.

The chief and his inspectors believe men who understand the Sicilian ianguage and people are necessary to clear up the mysteries, but the civil service requirmeents have proved stumbling block when it came to getting such men on the regular force. As a rule the Sicilians not only are lacking in regulation height and weight, but also are unable to pass the American educational test for patrolmen.

His unexpected reply, "No. sir," caused a stir throughout the court. The witness continued, "I decline to swear that the expert testimony which I may be called upon to give is the truth. All that I can swear to is that to the best of my ability, understanding and judgment in the matter of firearms, certain conditions produce certain results. But I cannot swear that such findings are the truth."

"Little Billy Horn" Did His Part To Win Cuba and the Philippines.

HE IS NOW ON THE STAGE

Fires a Machine Gun in the Range Fight in "The Round Up" Now At Salt Lake Theater.

"The man behind the gun" is in Salt Lake City. His name is Willian Horn, he hails from New York city and he is known there and "on the read" as "Little Billy Horn."

Horn was discovered near the stage entrance to the Salt Lake Theater today, surrounded by about 500 men, women and children who gazed with interest while he worked with a Gardner machine gun, cleaning and putting together the delicate mechanism and getting it ready for the show.

At first glance Horn appears to be of very slender build, but upon closer observation the well knit frame, the supple muscles, the steel gray eyes and the springy step indicate the athlete and the man who has "seen athlete and the man who has "seen service."

Horn is one of the men who distinguished himself in the service of Uncle Sam during the war with Spain and afterwards in the insurrection in the Philippines. At the hattle of Santiago, on June 27, he attracted so much attention for his bravery and for his ability in handling a machine gun that he was personally complimented by Major Orman and was given many columns of writeup in the New York press.

In the battle of San Juan Hill, Horn kept one of the four machine guns working all night. Two guns had been ruined, but his position was such the enemy could not out either gun or man out of commission. In the morning there were many dead and wounded about him and the wounded were crying for water. After a great amount of persuasion, Horn was induced to tell briefly of his experience on that occasion.

WENT FOR WATER.

WENT FOR WATER.

"I heard the poor fellows crying for water," said he. "I felt sorry for them and I made up my mind to get them some water. I got hold of Major Orman's horse, he was a captain them, and gathered up about 20 canteens. I tied them around the horse's neck and sneaked out for the San Juan river about a mile away. On the road I came close to getting hit several times and finally the horse got a bullet through the neck, but it was only a flesh wound and I made my way to the river. While filling the canteens a bullet rapped me on the thumb and several others hit pretty close, and then I awakened to the fact that there was a bunch of Spanish sharpshooters concealed in trees and were trying to pick me off.

"Well, I managed to get back to camp and reported the matter to Malor. Orman. He detailed me to pilot a captain and a company to the place. Those Spaniards had sneaked behind our lines and had orders to pick off our officers and, in fact, shoot anybody. We had orders to get every one of them. Well, we got 192 and got hurt to the extent of 27 dead and wounded in our own ranks. I had to laugh at Orman when he told me I did something great in getting water for those poor wounded fellows, and then the crazy papers in New York came out with a whole lot o' guff about me.

STIRRING TIMES IN MINDANO. "I heard the poor fellows crying for iter," said he. "I felt sorry for

STIRRING TIMES IN MINDANO. "I went to the Philippines and served five years and eight months there. I was with H. company, Thirteenth infuntry. I was orderly for Major Orman, and I was also with A. battery, Sixth artillery. My worst experience, I artillery. My worst experience, I guess, was at Mindanao, at Camp Marahuf. I was attacked there one night while on guard duty by five men. I knocked one man down with the butt of my gun and while holding off the others, my gun was cut 27 times by their bolos. The man I had knocked down rose up and nearly disemboweled me but I got him with a bullet between the eyes and another man through the heart. By that time the guard arrived and took care of the rest of them."

the guard arrived and took care of the rest of them."

Horn operates the machine gun in "The Round Up" and fires about 600 shots in the great battle scene with the Indians.

"In the army," said Horn patting the gun affectionately, "this gun fired 695 shots a minute, but I made a record of 700 shots a minute with it. It's a great gun and the kind that makes good Indians when there is an Indian war, going on."

The moving of the gun and other "props" into the theater this morning attracted a great deal of attention. Carl Reynolds, the local property man, was on the jump all day getting things into place. There are fourteen huge mats for the horses to run upon. One of them weighs 1,400 pounds and tha others 1,000 each. The stage has been braced for the horses and along the wings big braces have been erected so the bucking broncos will not kick through the scenes.
